ORION 1972

Dear Diego,

To a really swell guy in seventh grade. Best of luck always.
See ya' next year
"Little Skat"

THE SENIOR CLASS
OF
DANIEL BOONE AREA
HIGH SCHOOL
BIRDSBORO, PENNSYLVANIA
PRESENTS

ORION
1972

To the class of 1972, Orion represents one constellation in the wide spectrum of stars toward which we gaze intently . . .

to mirror past experiences or to dream about future accomplishments.

As we star gaze, we stop and think about the world around us. We remember the good times . . .

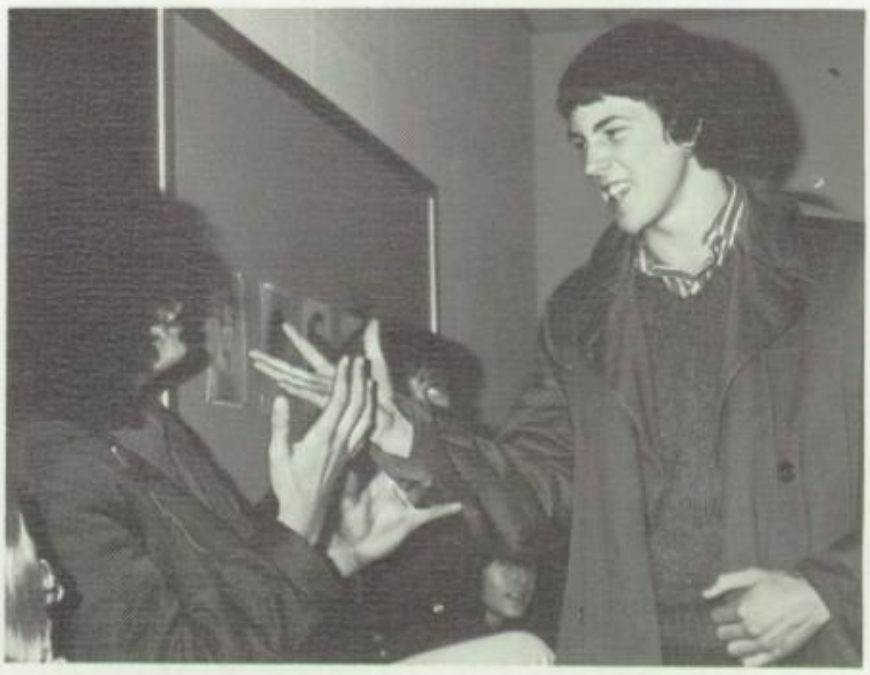
and the bad . . .

the sadness . . .

or the happiness . . .



discord . . .

and strife . . .

or peace . . .

and contentment . . .

a sense of frustration . . .

or a sense of fulfillment.

Many of us believe those tiny stars control our destiny. During our school days, they were often dimmed by the glowing sun or obscurred by the darkening clouds, but they were always there to guide us as they did the mariners of old.

Although the class of 1972 faces many problems and hardships, we leave the refuge of Daniel Boone High School and start our journey to the stars.

Orion will serve as our constant guide and we will endeavor to shine as brightly and as steadfastly to those who follow our path.

Zodiac Sign Summary

Aries

Masculine Fire Cardinal
Myth: Phrixus, son of Nepele, falsely accused of ravishing Biadice, was condemned to death, but was rescued by a golden ram, on whose back he escaped with his sister Helle. She became giddy and fell off; but Phrixus reached safety, and sacrificed the ram to Zeus, who placed its likeness in the heavens. Years later the ram's fleece became famous, when Jason captured it.
Ruling planet: Mars
Color: red
Metal: copper
Stone: diamond
Plants: geranium, thistle, honeysuckle
Trees: all thorn-bearing trees and shrubs
Countries: England, France, Germany, Poland
Cities Naples, Florence, Krakow

Taurus

Feminine Earth Fixed
Myth: Taurus was the white bull who courted Europa, bearing her on his back; he was in fact Zeus in disguise, and when the god changed back into his normal form, he placed the bull in the heavens.
Ruling planet: Venus
Colors: pink, pale blue
Metal: copper
Stone: sapphire
Plants: rose, poppy, violet, foxglove, vine
Trees: ash, cypress, apple
Countries: Ireland, Switzerland, Persia, Sweden
Cities: Dublin, Lucerne, Leipzig, St. Louis

Gemini

Masculine Air Mutable
Myth: In Egypt Gemini was known as "The Two Stars" — and took its name from the stars Castor and Pollux, the brightest of the constellation, also known as Hercules and Apollo, and Triptolemus and Iasion. The Egyptians illustrated Gemini by two kids rather than the two human figures commonly used.
Ruling planet: Mercury
Colors: all, especially yellow
Metal: mercury
Stone: agate
Plants: lily-of-the-valley, lavender
Trees: nut-trees
Countries: U.S.A., Wales
Cities: London, Plymouth, Melbourne, San Francisco

Cancer

Feminine Water Cardinal
Myth: As a crab, Cancer is Babylonian in origin; but in Egypt, the constellation was sometimes represented by two turtles, sometimes known as Allul, an unidentified water-creature. Thus its association with water is ancient, but a more detailed mythological history is lacking.
Ruling planet: Moon
Colors: smoky greys, greens
Metal: silver
Stone: pearl
Plants: acanthus, wild-flowering plants
Trees: those rich in sap
Countries: Scotland, Holland, New Zealand
Cities: Amsterdam, New York, Venice, Manchester

Leo

Masculine Fire Fixed
Myth: The lion commemorated in this constellation is traditionally the Nemean lion, its pelt proof against iron, bronze, and stone, which Hercules killed (losing a finger to its teeth), and which commemorates his bravery.
Ruling planet: Sun
Colors: golden yellow, orange
Metal: gold
Stone: ruby
Plants: sunflower, marigold, rosemary
Trees: orange and all citrus trees, bay, palm Countries: France, Italy, Rumania
Cities: Rome, Prague, Damascus, Los Angeles, Chicago, Philadelphia

Virgo

Feminine Earth Mutable
Myth: According to Hesiod, Virgo (also called Astraes) was the daughter of Jupiter and Themsis, and was the goddess of Justice. When the Golden Age ended, and men defied her rule, she returned to the heavens in disgust.
Ruling planet: Mercury
Colors: navy blue, dark grey, browns
Metal: mercury
Stone: sardonyx
Plants: small, brightly-colored flowers
Trees: nut-trees
Countries: Greece, Turkey, the West Indies
Cities: Paris, Boston, Heidelberg

Libra

Masculine Air Cardinal
Myth: About 2000 B.C. the constellation was associated with the judgement of the living and dead in Babylonian religions, and Zibanitu, the Scales, weighed the souls. In Egypt the harvest was weighed when the moon was full in Libra.
Rusling Planet: Venus
Colors: pale blue, pink
Metal: copper
Stone: Sapphire
Plants: with blue flowers, large opulent roses, vine
Tree: ash
Countries: Austria, Burma, Japan, Tibet
Cities: Vienna, Antwerp, Lisbon, Copenhagen, Frankfurt

Scorpio

Feminine Water Fixed
Myth: At Juno's command the Scorpion rose from the earth to attack Orion. The Scorpion also caused the horses of the Sun to bolt when being driven for a day by the boy Phaethan; Jove rebuked it with a thunderbolt.
Ruling planet: Pluto (traditionally, Mars)
Colors: dark red, maroon
Metal: iron
Stone: opal
Plants: those with dark red flowers, e.g. rhododendron
Trees: bushy trees, blackthorn
Countries: Norway, Syria
Cities: Liverpool, New Orleans, Washington, D.C.

Sagittarius

Masculine Fire Mutable
Myth: Sagittarius, with his two faces, animal and human, was the centaur Cheiron who raised Jason, Achilles, and Aeneas. Famous as a prophet, doctor, and scholar, he was the son of Philyra by Cronus, also the father of Zeus, who, surprised in the act, turned himself into a stallion and gallopped off, leaving Philyra. She, disgusted with her half-horse, half-human child, turned herself into a linden tree.
Ruling Planet: Venus
Colors: purple, dark regal blue
Metal: tin
Stone: topaz
Plants: asparagus, pinks, dandelion, tomato
Trees: lime, mulberry, ash, oak, birch
Countries: Spain, Australia, Hungary, Madagascar
Cities: Toledo, Budapest, Cologne

Capricorn

Feminine Earth Cardinal
Myth: Pan's mother ran from Capricorn because of his ugliness, but Capricorn's success in seducing nymphs was notable. An ancient Babylonian god was Ea, known as the "antelope of the subterranean ocean" — the fish-tailed goat also called "Kusarikku," the fish-ram.
Ruling planet: Saturn
Colors: black, dark grey, very dark green, brown
Metal: lead
Stone: turquoise
Plants: pansies, onions, hemlock, ivy
Trees: pine, willow, elm, poplar
Countries: India, Mexico, Afghanistan
Cities: Oxford, Delhi, Brussels

Aquarius

Masculine Air Fixed
Myth: The god Hopi, watering from two jars, was an ancient symbol of the river Nile, and in Babylon the god Ea was sometimes called "the god with streams." The Babylonian name of Aquarius, GU LA, was at first associated with the goddess of childbirth and healing.
Ruling planet: Uranus (traditionally, Saturn)
Color: electric blue
Metal: uranium
Stone: amethyst
Plants: orchids, golden-rain
Trees: most fruit trees
Countries: U.S.S.R., Sweden
Cities: Hamburg, Bremen, Moscow

Pisces

Feminine Water Mutable
Myth: Terrified by the giant Typhoon, Venus and Cupid hurled themselves into the Euphrates and became fishes. Minerva commemorated the event by placing the fishes in the heavens. The Babylonians knew the constellation as KUN, or the Tails; it was also known as the Leash — upon which were tied the two fish-goddesses Anunitum and Simmah.
Ruling planet: Neptune
Color: soft sea-green
Metal: tin
Stones: moonstone, bloodstone
Plant: water-lily
Trees: fig, willow, trees near water
Countries: Portugal, the Sahara
Cities: Alexandria, Seville

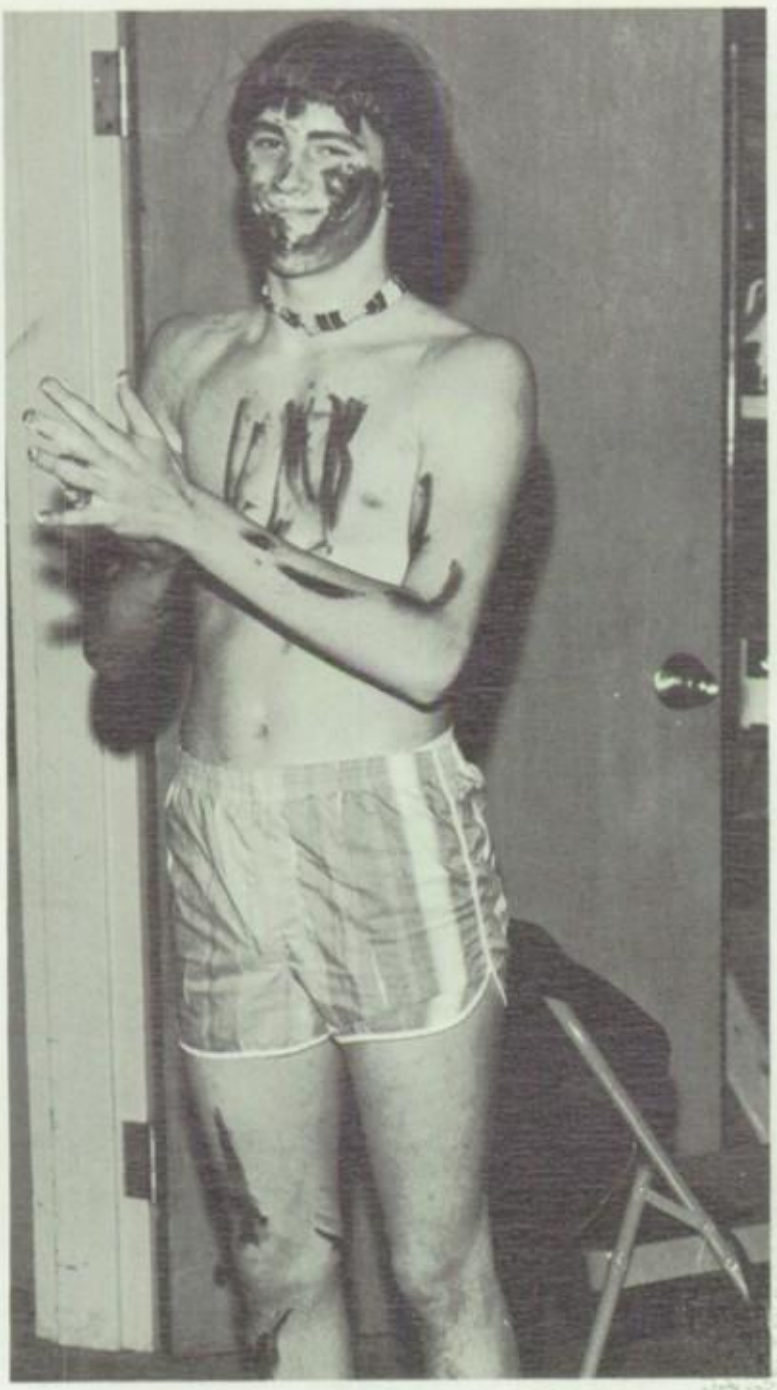
Shut up or I'll cram it down your throat!

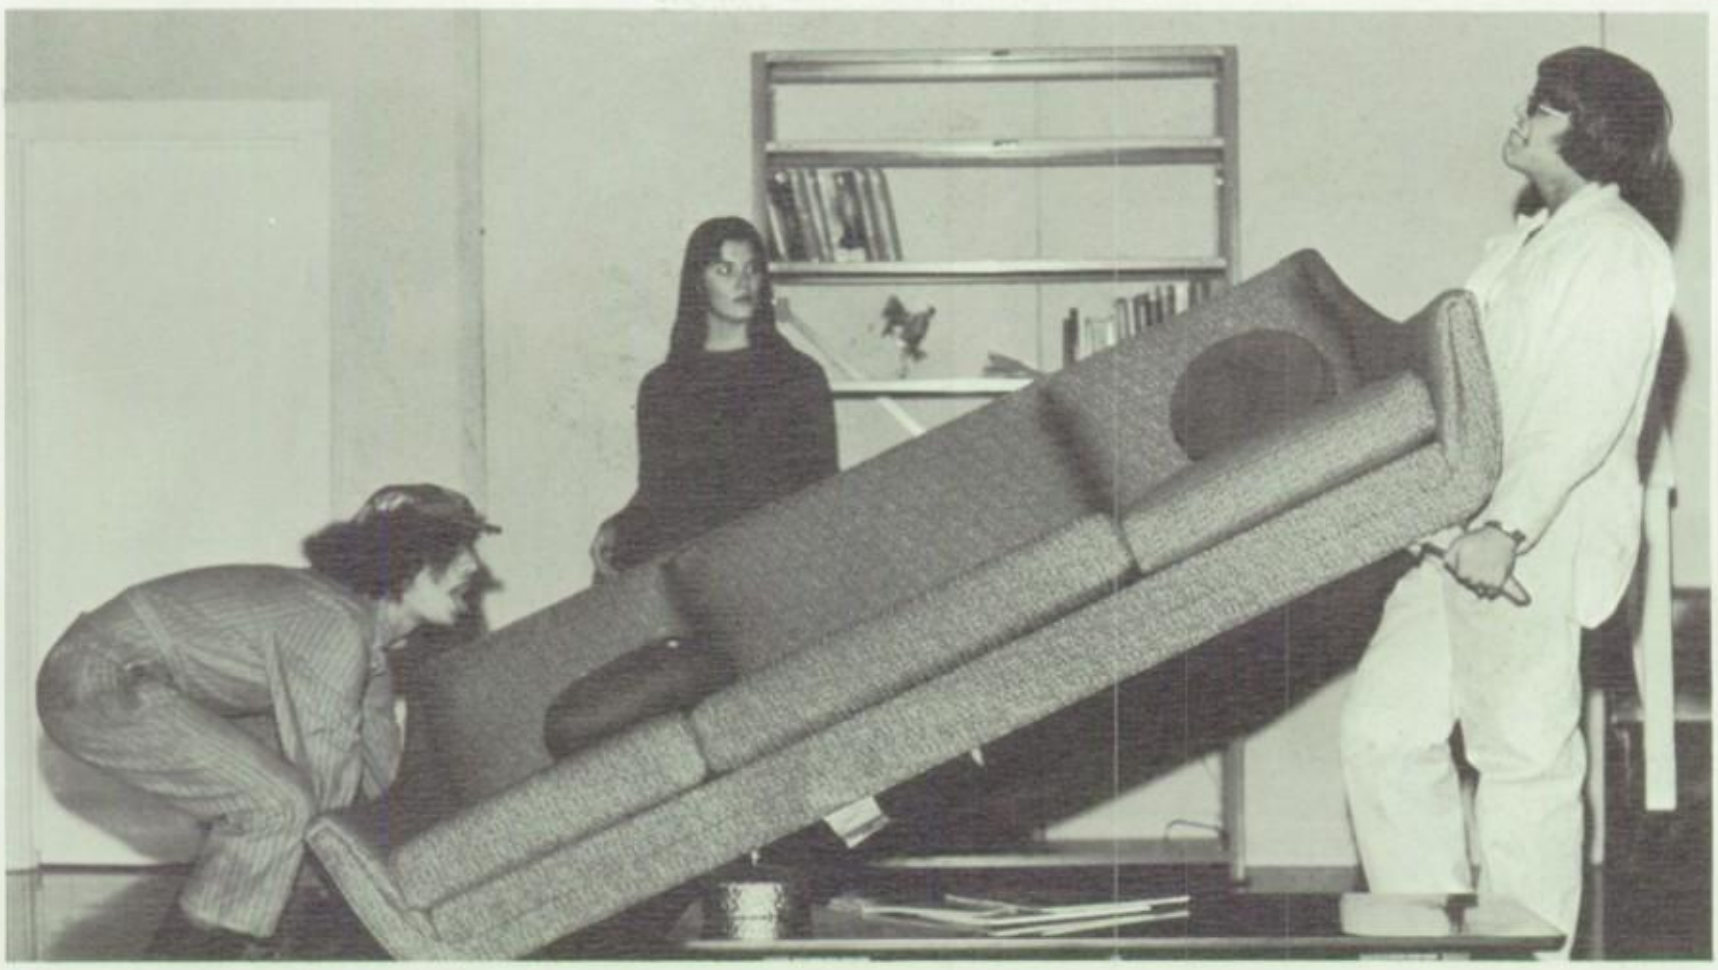
On Saturday, December 4, the Senior Class presented "One Wild Night," a farce in three acts, directed by Mrs. Claire Bare.

The plot centers around Rodney Dodd, a healthy hypocondriac, who insists he is dying and decides to take one last fling. Rodney has a difficult time explaining all the confusion the next morning to his Aunt Myra Opal Dodd. Complicating matters are: Charlotte, a pretty girl whom he wants to impress; Scorpio, the gangster; Jade, a singer; and Doris and Maribelle, two girls who have spent the night in his house. The play closes with Willow-Chlorphide, the creative invetnion of Jodwillow, the butler, putting everyone to sleep.



The original grease monkey.

I'll get you for this, Scorpio.



Your lift, Mr. Dickens.

Our hero, the cropper!

You turn this hooji and push the watchamacallit.

Mrs. Hill, in her second childhood.

Rub a dub-dub, two artists in a tire.

Our sports department.

I'll never get finished.

Recess is over kiddies.

I want my mommy.

Let me off, I'm dizzy!

Please let us out!

Good luck to next year's staff.

Working And Helping Together

NEW HORIZONS

We, the crew of the starship Orion '72 are about to experience the final phase of our education: Graduation.
The countdown, beginning in first grade, encountered many hazards along the way, but we have survived them
all. As the date for our blast-off approaches, we can honestly say we will not be thrust into the world totally unprepared. We have been shown new horizons by many fine teachers, and their guidance will enable us to maintain a steady course in life. In a sense, each one of us is an astrologer — drawing charts and looking through telescopes in hopes of finding new and undiscovered stars to which we can reach out.
This yearbook is the result of those twelve years of searching and charting.
No matter what course in life we choose, we all have one main goal in mind — to make this world a better one for our generation and for all to follow . . .

Spring Concert

. . . Featuring Bands And Fronts

Boots Randolph?

Band — try it, you'll like it!

Lynn Maistros, Stage Band soloist, "Walks On By" during the concert.

Our star performer!

Joy and Jeff on the sax.

Twirlers do their thing.

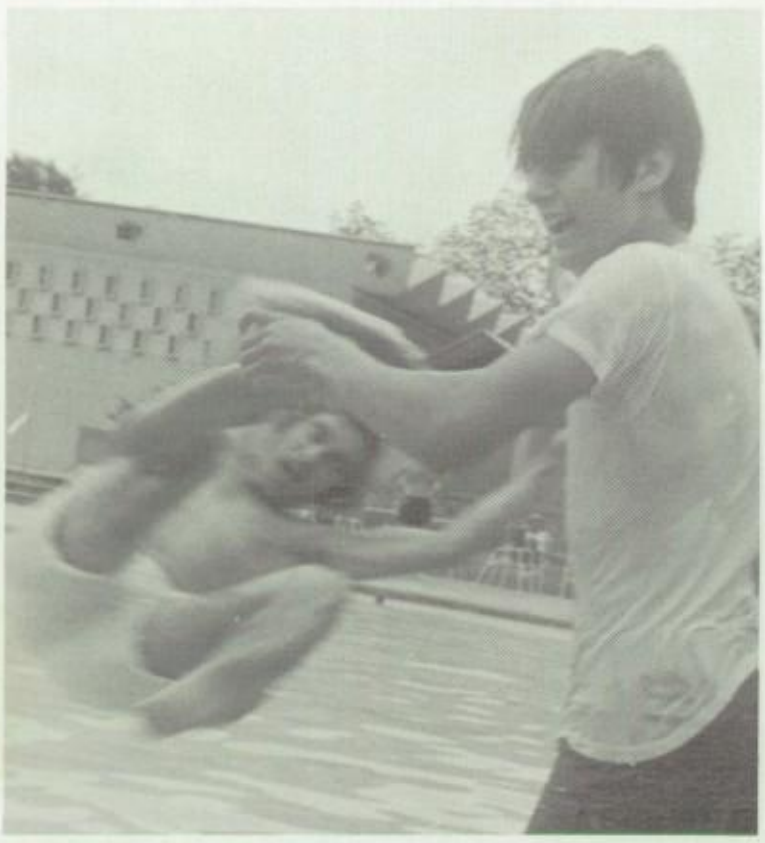
Is this a conspiracy?

72 Spring Prom

On April 29, the junior class presented the 1972 Prom at Stokesay Castle in Reading. At 6:30 p.m. the receiving line formed and couples began filing into the ballroom for their dinner of chicken. The theme was spring flowers. The junior class decorated the long tables with yellow roses. After dinner, the dance floor filled as "Meditation" began playing to everyone's enjoyment. At about 11:00, couples left. For many, the night was still young. May these pages bring back pleasant thoughts from that night.

Up Up . . .

The Senior Class ended its high school career with a big splash at the traditional Class Picnic.



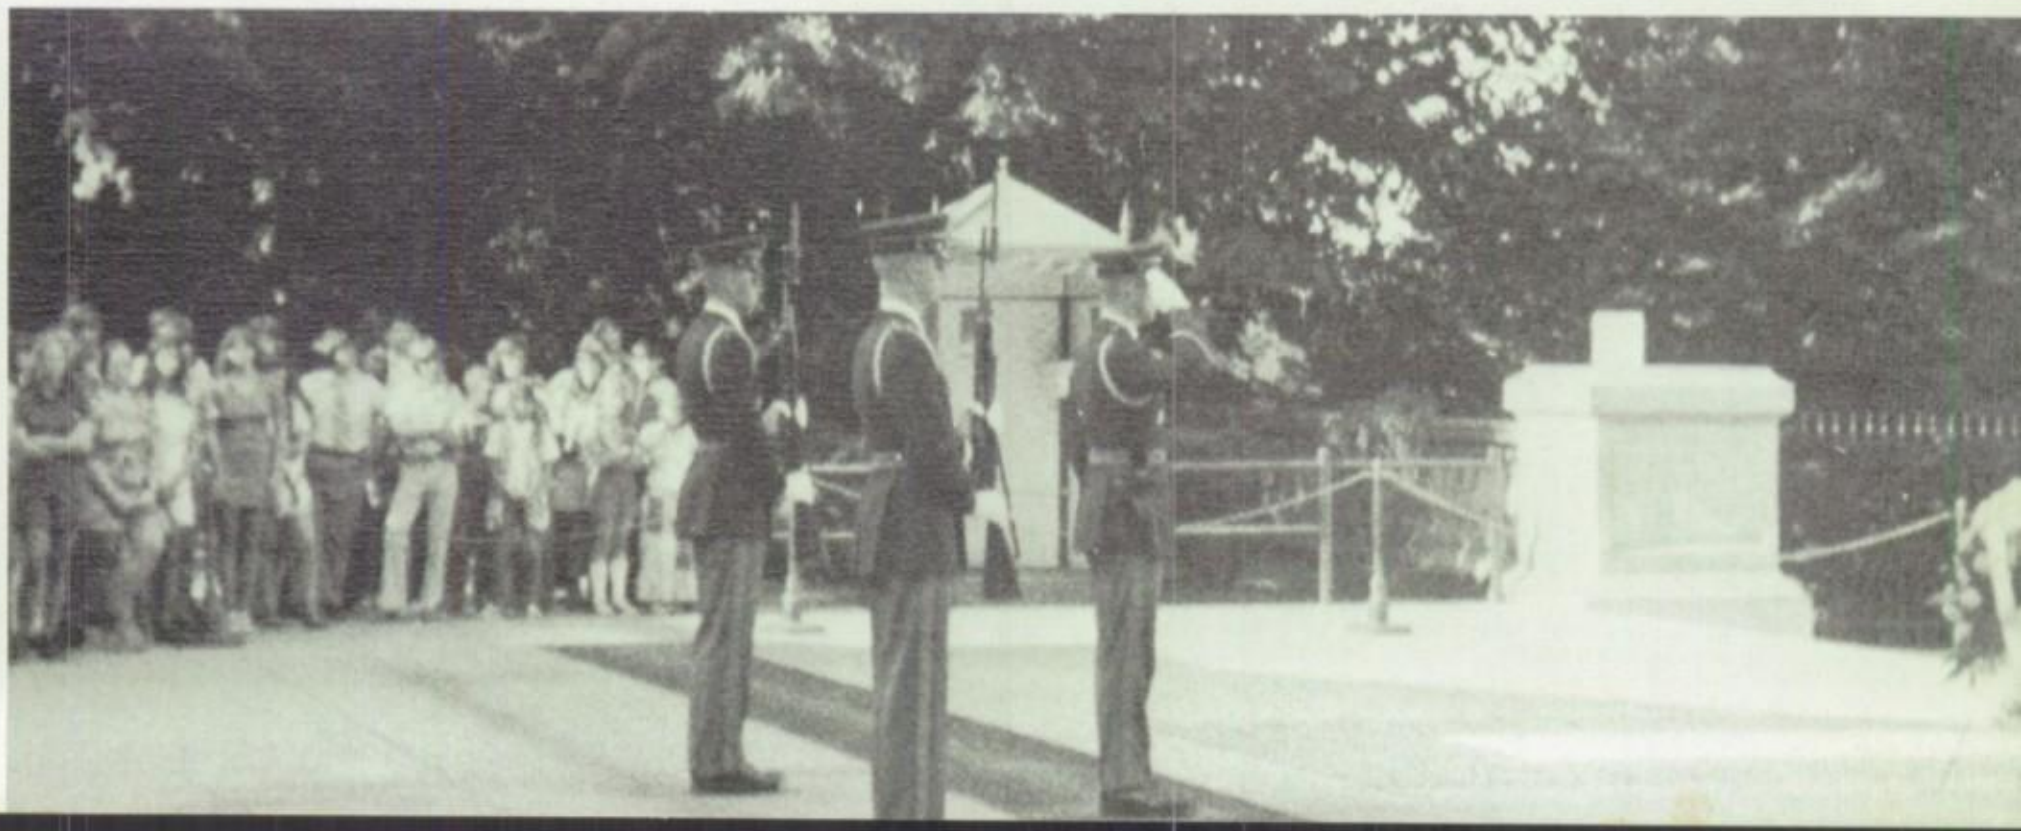
DB's answer to "The Godfather" arrives in New York.

And Away!

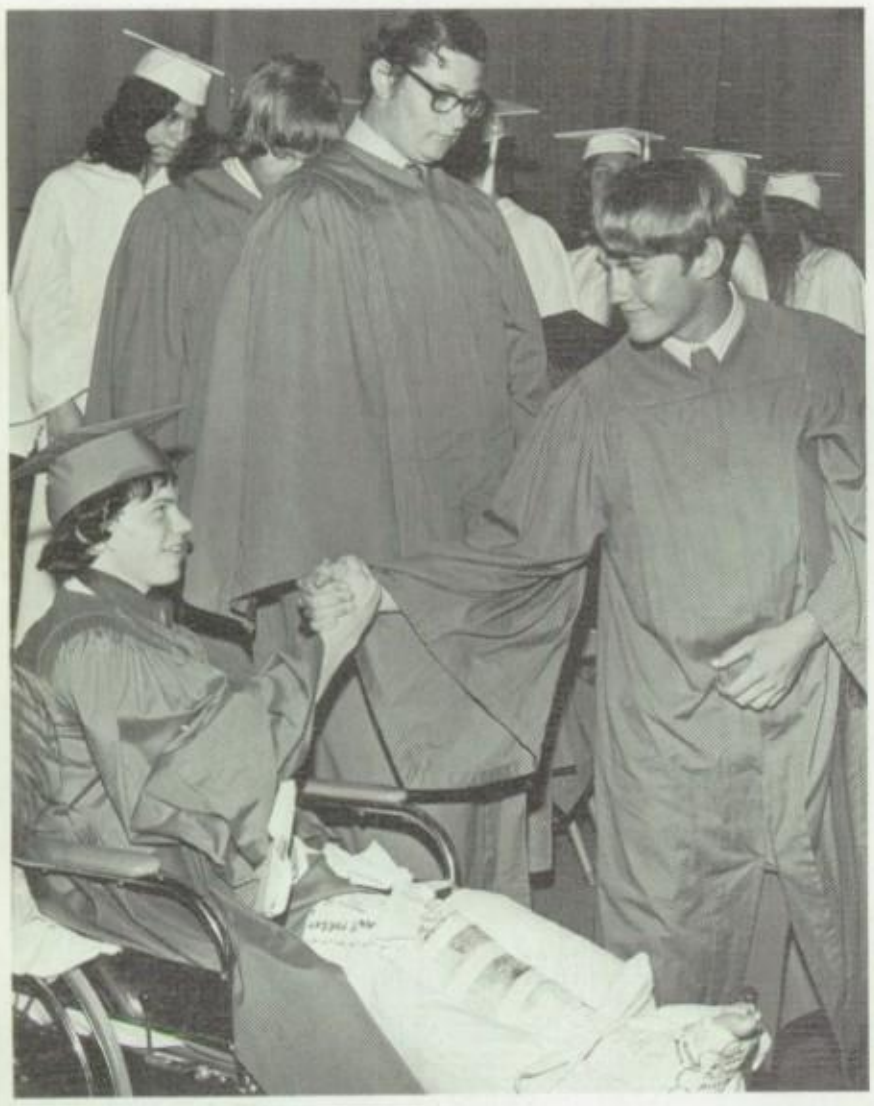
A five A.M. departure didn't dampen the spirits of the 120 Juniors who descended on Washington, D.C., on May 24. After drooling over the stacks of "folding green" at the Bureau of Engraving, the group posed for a photo with Senator Yatron on the steps of the Capitol and visited the Senate gallery to watch their government in action.

Following a picnic on the grass with a magnificent view of the Washington Monument, the class members explored the wonders of the Smithsonian Institute. Then boarding the busses, they visited Arlington National Cemetery where they watched the traditional changing of the guard and stopped at the Kennedy gravesite.

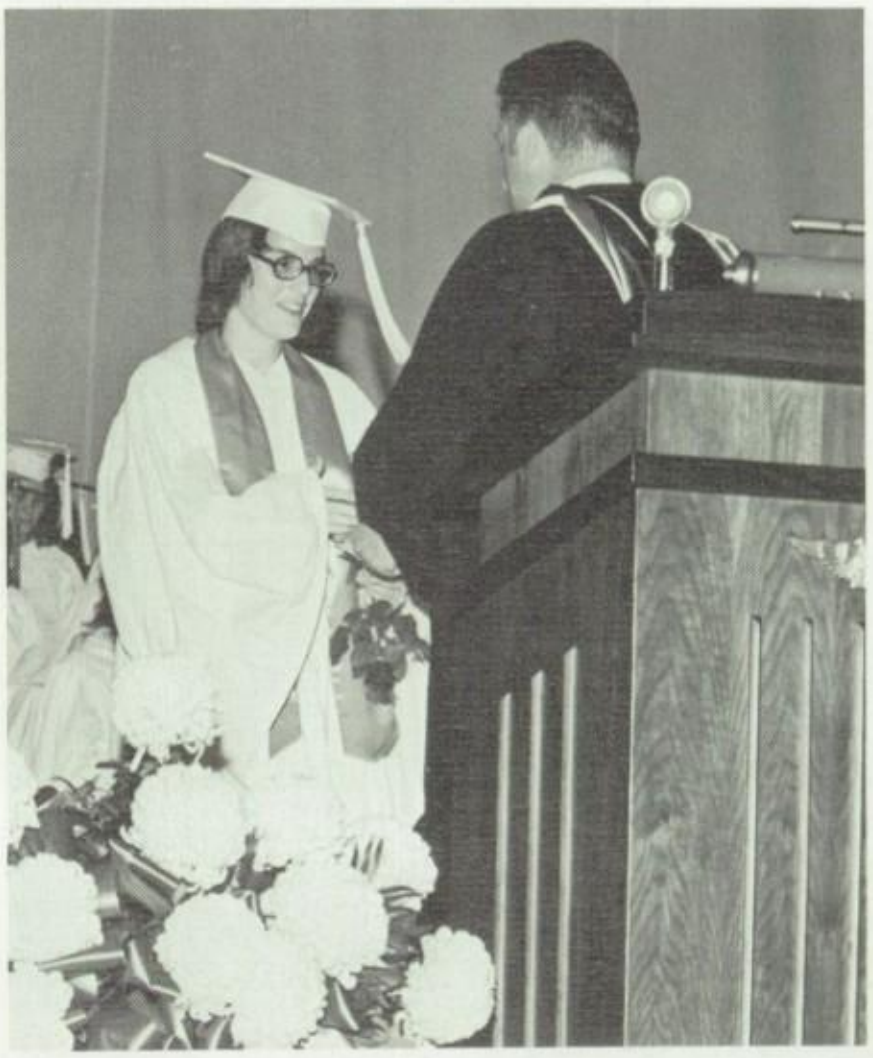
After supper cafeteria-style, the travelers settled down (?) for the long trip home. Typical reaction: Let's do it again!



No More Pencils,



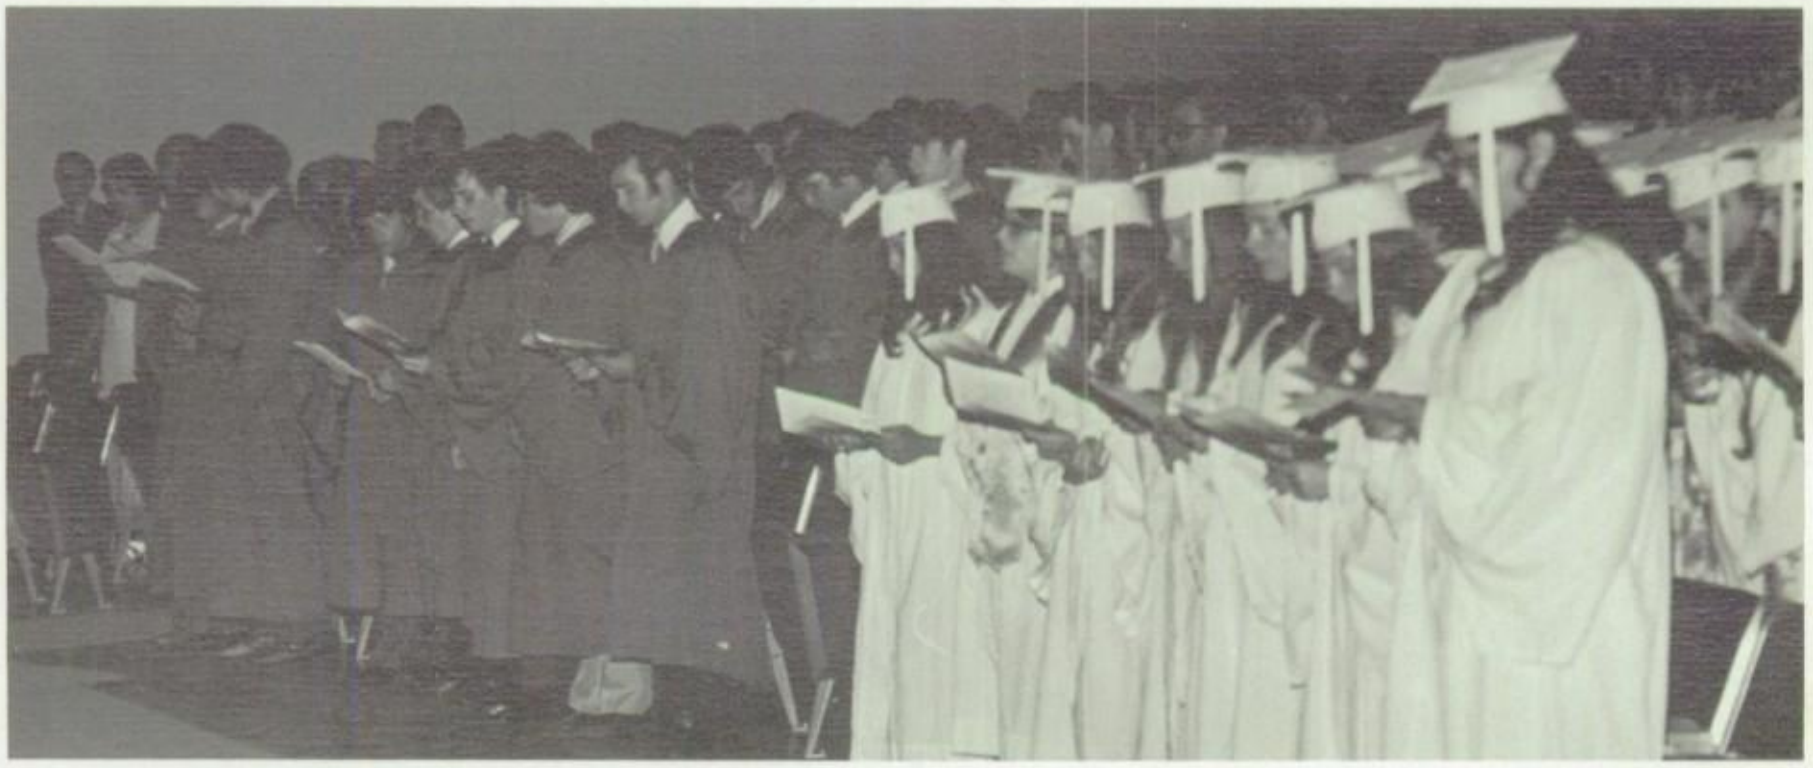
"Glad to see you could make it, Rob."



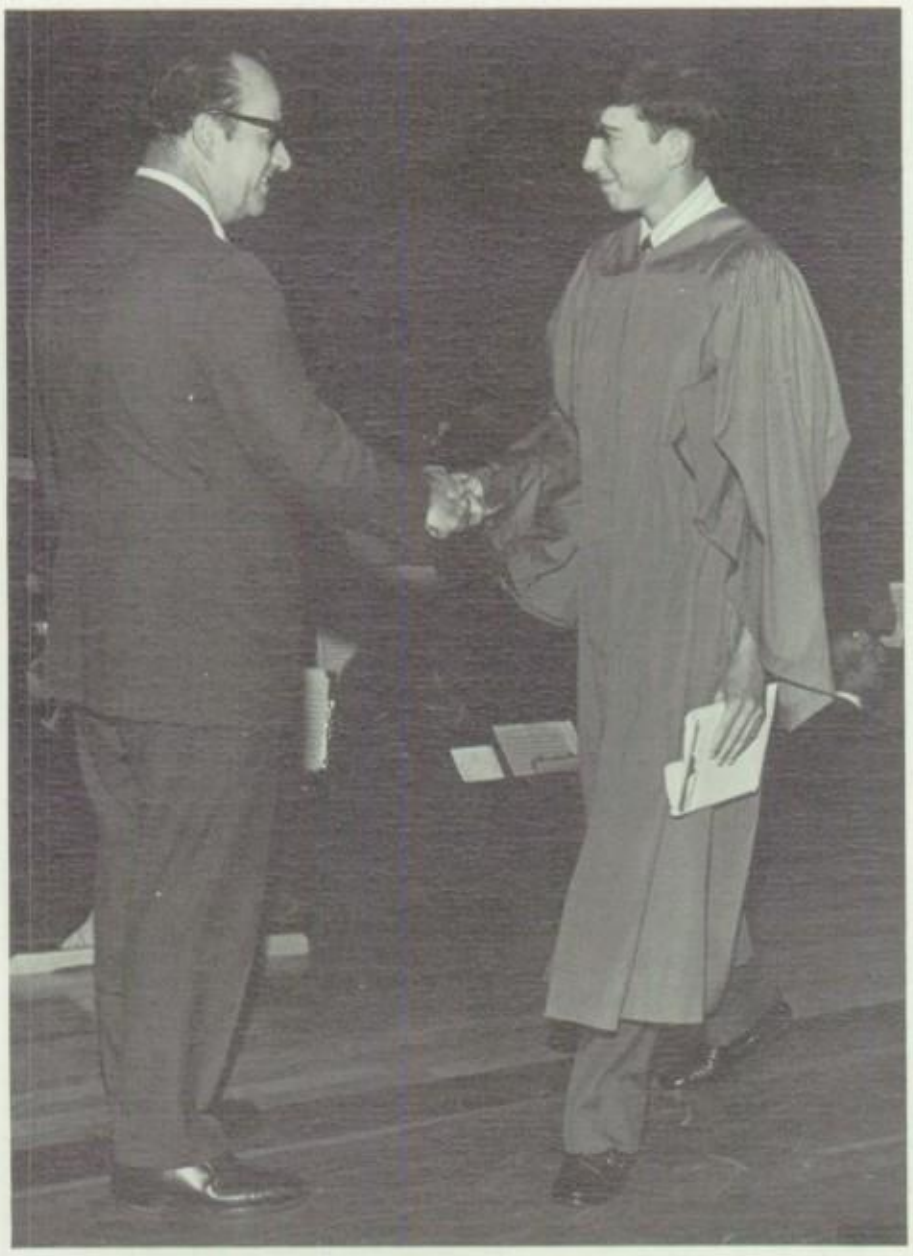
Dawn gets the big one!

Seniors "let loose" after Baccalaureate.

No More Books, . . .

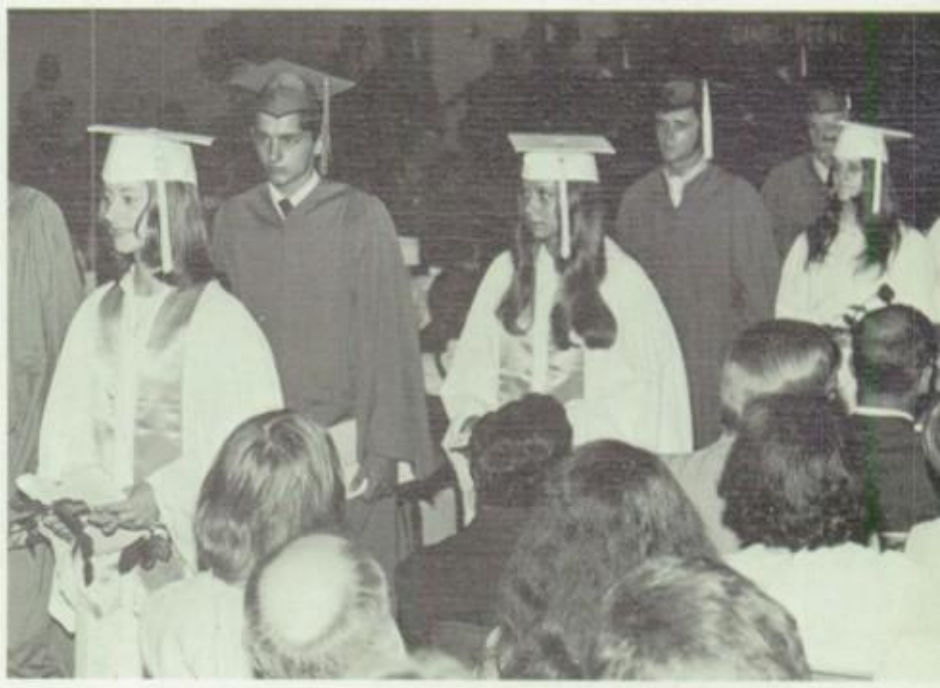


Seniors and guests sing the opening hymn at Baccalaureate.



Dr. Sidney B. Willar congratulates Kevin Kulp.

The graduates take their final walk up the aisle.



Bill Povilaitis receives his diploma at home.

Jr. Class Play

The Curious Savage

"I hate everything in this world, but most of all I hate . . . "

"The bonds! Can't we save them, Titus?"

"Please don't read anything from the newspaper, Mrs. Savage."
